LIGHTNING HITS PLEASURE BOAT DURING STORM

Ohio Senator is Knocked Down by Bolt, But is Reported Resting on Yacht

FIVE OTHERS UNHURT

Solon Unconscious for Half Hour After Accident in Chesapeake Bay

SOLOMONS ISLAND, Md., July 30.—(UP)—Sen. Vic Donahey, of Ohio, recovered today aboard his yacht, Ohio, from severe burns suffered late yesterday when he was struck by lightning in Chesapeake Bay.

The bolt struck a fishing boat, The Catfish, knocking the senator down. He was unconscious for nearly half an hour, but was revived as the boat neared shore.

After being treated by a physician for burns Sen. Donahey went aboard his own yacht, on which he has been spending his vacation. The physician said the burns were painful but not critical.

Both Hands Burned

Both hands were severely burned and the senator was suffering from shock, "I feel numb; I want to lie down," the senator said when he was taken from The Catfish.

Capt. William Hayden, skipper of The Catfish, said he saw the storm approaching and had gotten within half a mile of shore when the "sky seemed to split wide open, and there was fire and a deafening crash."

Also aboard The Catfish, but uninjured, were G. A. Schlesinger, former director of highways in Ohio, and his wife; Mrs. Leola Leeth, the senator's secretary, and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wallsmith.

Sen. Donahey was able to eat his breakfast today and said he felt no ill effects of his experience except that his stomach "is a little weak."

Sen. Donahey said early reports of his injury were greatly exaggerated but that he felt "mighty lucky" to have escaped.

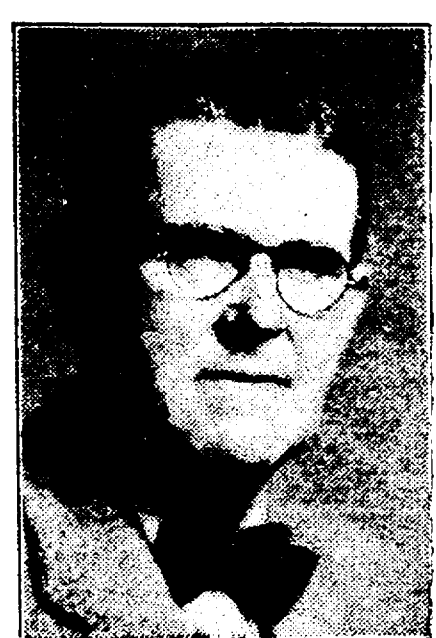

"I couldn't understand it for a moment," he said. "I didn't know what struck me. The first thing I realized I was on the deck. My side was numb. Then people began helping me to my feet and I knew it was not serious."

Telephoned Wife

A radio broadcast reported the senator in serious condition last night prompting him to telephone his wife and family in Columbus, Ohio, to prevent undue worry on their part.

Residents of the island colony said it was a rare occurrence for lightning to strike a boat in that vicinity.

APALACHICOLA, Fla., July 30.—(UP)—A tropical storm, carrying hurricane winds at its center, swung slightly westward at 10 a. m. today and will probably strike the Florida coast between here and Pensacola during the afternoon.

The federal hurricane warning system reported the storm's movement "somewhat uncertain" at 8:30 a. m., but ordered hurricane warnings extended westward from Panama City to Pensacola. East of Panama City warnings had already been ordered to Cedar Key, on the West Florida coast.

Stores Barricaded

The shift brought some relief from fear here, where merchants were barricading stores after an earlier warning that the main force of the blow would strike before noon.

WENDELIN TOLD NATION UNABLE TO PROVIDE AID

Foreigners Stay in Madrid Must Take Regular Train or Stay in City

LOYAL FORCE TRAPPED

Rebels Ambush Marching Men; Reports Declare 2,000 Are Slaughtered

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(UP)—The Spanish government today declined to provide a special train for evacuation of Americans and other foreigners beleaguered in Madrid.

In response to the request for such a train by members of the diplomatic corps, the government replied that it could offer only two alternatives to the foreigners trapped amid the civil war.

It said they might:

1. Remain in Madrid with the danger of being trapped in serious warfare.
2. Attempt to reach Moroccan seaports by regular service.

Duties Enacting

The Spanish government declared that its military commitments made it impossible to provide special trains at this time because of the necessity of transporting troops, war materials and foodstuffs.

The government added that no special guarantees of safety or safe conduct were required for foreigners going to the Mediterranean coast because the railway line is open and regular trains are leaving Madrid on schedule time.

It inferred that foreigners could leave at any time on the regular trains.

Eric C. Wendelin, reporting these facts to the state department, said the diplomatic corps was meeting to consider the feasibility of evacuating foreigners from Madrid on special coaches attached to the regular trains to Alicante and Valencia. The railroad, he said, was prepared to attach as many additional coaches to daily morning and evening trains as can be carried and will furnish first or third class coaches as desired.

Arrived Safely

Wendelin added that Americans who have voluntarily left Madrid for Valencia and Alicante during the last three days are believed to have arrived at their destinations safely.

WENDELIN TOLD NATION UNABLE TO PROVIDE AID

Foreigners Still in Madrid Must Take Regular Train or Stay in City

LOYAL FORCE TRAPPED

Rebels Ambush Marching Men; Reports Declare 2,000 Are Slaughtered

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(UP)—The Spanish government today declined to provide a special train for evacuation of Americans and other foreigners beleaguered in Madrid.

In response to the request for such a train by members of the diplomatic corps, the government replied that it could offer only two alternatives to the foreigners trapped amid the civil war.

It said they might: 1. Remain in Madrid with the danger of being trapped in serious warfare. 2. Attempt to reach Mediterranean seaports by regular train service.

Duties Exacting

The Spanish government declared that its military requirements made it impossible to organize special trains at this time because of the necessity of giving special preference to the transportation of troops, war materials and foodstuffs.

The government added that no special guarantees of safety or safe conduct were required for foreigners going to the Mediterranean coast because the railway line is open and regular trains are leaving Madrid on schedule time.

It inferred that foreigners could leave at any time on the regular trains.

Eric C. Wendelin, reporting these facts to the state department, said the diplomatic corps was meeting to consider the feasibility of evacuating foreigners from Madrid on special coaches attached to the regular trains to Alicante and Valencia. The railroad, he said, was prepared to attach as many additional coaches to daily morning and evening trains as can be carried and will furnish first or third class coaches as desired.

Arrived Safely

Wendelin added that Americans who have voluntarily left Madrid for Valencia and Alicante during the last three days are believed to have arrived at their destinations safely.

PERPIGNAN, French-Spanish Frontier, July 30 (UP)—Frightful casualties, which may prove to exceed 2,000 killed, were reported today in a Spanish rebel ambush of loyalists advancing to attack Zaragoza.

Caballero, the rebel commandant, had placed a strong force in the mountains overhanging a narrow canyon, and studied the entire position with machine guns.

At dawn, as the loyalist columns converged in the canyon and rested, the rebels opened a devastating fire.

ANY FARMERS VISIT WOOSTER ON DAIRY DAY

Complete Program is Set for August 17 With Developments to be Shown

WOOSTER, July 30.—Staff members of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station at Wooster are preparing to welcome dairymen of the state at Dairy Day, Friday, August 17, and, in cooperation with the Ohio Dairymen's Association, have prepared an all-day program which is expected to attract more than the 4,000 people which is the past record for this event.

Many special exhibits have been arranged in addition to the speaking program which starts at 10:30 a. m. All dairymen will want to see cow No. 301 because this animal has been fed for eight years on a ration that did not contain any legume hay nor any protein concentrate. The records of the production of milk and butterfat for this cow are available for study.

Three methods of making alfalfa silage will be compared. The methods include untreated alfalfa, alfalfa silage made by adding molasses as the material is run through the cutter, and alfalfa silage in which the preservation is assisted by the addition of acid. The ultra-violet ray apparatus for adding vitamin D to milk will also be shown.

To Judge Production

Herd owners who believe they can tell by looking at a cow how much milk or butterfat the animal can produce will be given a chance to judge the production of a string of cows. Students in vocational agriculture and 4-H club members will compete in a judging contest which will be supervised by Ivan McKelip and H. W. Harshfield, Ohio State University.

One section of the speaking program begins with a talk by Dr. W. E. Krauss, Wooster, on the value of skim milk. He is followed by Miss Helen McKinley, Cleveland, who will tell some of the advantages of electricity in rural homes. Dairymen who want to save money in raising dairy heifers should hear C. F. Monroe, Wooster, at 10 a. m. of the study made of raising heifers on roughage alone. Three meetings will be conducted simultaneously during part of the forenoon, so visitors should obtain a program when they arrive at Wooster.

W. E. Perkins, Wooster, will explain the making of alfalfa silage, and Dr. Krauss will tell how color of milk is affected by certain roughages. Mr. Perkins will have the timely topic of "Mid-summer Feeding for Dairy Herds." C. C. Hayden, Wooster, tells the results of feeding cows for seven years on corn meal and legume hay, and Professor R. C. Miller, Ohio State University, will present plans and specifications for constructing a practical milk house. Dr. T. S. Sutton, Ohio State University, will give a report on a study of mastitis.

M. R. Moomaw, president, Ohio Dairymen's Association, will preside at the afternoon session at which C. G. Williams, director of the experiment station will welcome the visitors. Jack C. Nisbet, Hoard's Dairymen, Fort Atkinson, Wisconsin, one of the most popular speakers on dairying, has the feature place on this program.

Play Supervised

Parents who are afraid that their children will not enjoy the day's program will find that their fears are groundless as a special supervised play period will be arranged for them at 1:30. The judging contest for 4-H club members following the afternoon speaking program.

Entering His Seventy-fourth Year, Henry Ford Predicts That Business Will Continue Good "Regardless"

DETROIT, July 30.—Convinced "changes are coming fast" in industrial development and that business will continue to be good, Henry Ford enters his seventy-fourth year on July 30, more intensely alive than ever. In a word he still is the dynamic Ford who worked his way up from jobs of $3.50 a week to become the head of a 200-billion-dollar automobile empire.

His seventy-third birthday—he was born July 30, 1863—finds him at his 16-room summer camp in the wilds of northern Michigan on Lake Superior, 19 miles from the nearest public telephone office and telegraph station in the village of Big Bay.

Prior to departing for his annual vacation there on one of his ore freighters, which have beautifully furnished quarters for guests, the motor magnate left characteristic comment on business and the future.

Forecasts Changes
"Business," Ford holds, "is doing all right. It will continue to be good despite what they are trying to do."

"Changes are coming fast. People again are growing interested in new things."

He adds that the next big industrial step will be the perfection of industries we already have.

He refuses to hazard a question as to what the automobile of the future will be like.

Once, typical of him, he wrote under his own signature: "I am often asked what the automobile of the future will be like."

"I don't know. If I did, I would build it."

The motor magnate is reported to be giving considerable thought to the subject. This production year another company built more cars than the plants Ford founded.

It is certain that Ford desires to recapture the honor of producing the greatest number of cars in the United States. Not that business is bad in Ford's plants. It is excellent. But General Motors has slipped ahead of it in production. This has led to reports Ford may bring out a new small car next month.

New Car in Doubt

When Ford is asked about the new car, he admits:

"Certainly, we have been experimenting on a small V-8, but that doesn't mean we shall build one."

Ford believes the trend in auto building in the future will be toward lighter-in-weight cars and better fuel. That is as far as he ventures, insisting "no one knows what the car of the future will be."

Ford holds no official title in the Ford Motor company. His son, Edsel, is president. But Ford has the run of the factories and his advice often is sought, particularly if the problem concerns "anything under the hood". Edsel is said to pass on body lines of the cars.

Ford remains in excellent health, his face deeply tanned. He likes to go without a hat and invariably does. The summer heat does not bother him. When the sun was hottest during the July heat wave, Ford took bicycle rides every morning and night, averaging approximately three miles a day.

Asked what he did to keep cool, he answered:

"Just go along as always."

He is going along as usual, despite his birthday. He insists he "spends" the day like any other day and does not "observe" birthdays. His vacation now is a far cry from those not so many years ago.

Past Vacations

outlived them and as he passes his seventy-third milestone he looks more like 55 than 73.

Occasionally, he appears worn and tired, according to close friends, but he steps out the next day looking as fit as ever. He has marvelous recuperative powers, it is said.

Ford has remained intensely alive and active. He says "men can't get old—they must go on." At home, he passes his days roaming the streets of his Greenfield Village, where he has gathered his exhibits of old Americana, or at his office or in his workshop. He stops to chat with his workmen and, occasionally, hustles one of them off for an automobile ride. Out walking, he startles acquaintances frequently by breaking into a run, or vaulting over a three or four-foot hedge or fence.

Ford passes his time as the spirit moves him. But, almost uncanonically, he hops up where he is needed just in time. He is affable when he meets newspapermen, though sometimes he tries to dodge them.

So far, he has been silent in regard to this year's presidential race. From the past, it is evident he is opposed to Roosevelt, but he refrains from comment now, holding "I don't think anybody cares what I think about politics."

Ford was born in Greenfield, Mich., now absorbed by his suburban plants. He began his business career by working at $2 a week in a machine shop. He supplemented this by working in a jewelry store at night for $1.50 a week. Later, he became a mechanical engineer at the Edison company plant in Detroit. Then, he produced his first automobile.

Center of Film War

GARY COOPER, one-time cowboy screen hero and now one of the highest priced leading men in the films, is the center of a $5,000,000 row between Adolph Zukor and Samuel Goldwyn, two giants of the film industry. Zukor, chairman of the board of Paramount productions, brought suit in Hollywood for $4,000,000 asserted "actual damages" and $1,000,000 punitive damages, charging Goldwyn lured Cooper away from Paramount.

The farm, located on the Lee-burgh Pike south of here, has been equipped through co-operation of the Rural Electrification Administration, the National Electric Manufacturers Association and private firms. Most of the routine duties of farm life—hay pitching, milking, wood chopping, etc.—as well as the luxuries of city life—electric vibrators, vacuum cleaners, dishwashers, etc.—will be shown.

When Chesterfield paper comes off the rolls it is tested again and again to make sure it will burn without taste or odor.

We know from experience that good cigarette paper helps make a good cigarette — we know it's one reason why Chesterfield wins.

Coney Island Goes Now Modern

Famous Playground Finds That Elegance and Sophistication Pay Dividends

Barnum's Museum, first satirical sideshow at this famous playground.

Ho Ho Casino, most magnificently-appointed hot spot at Coney Island.

NEW YORK — Coney Island, for 50 years and more the traditional poor man's playground, this season is going in for elegance! The latest shock to old-timers, who always have regarded the big town's famous playground as a place where visitors wouldn't pay more than a dime for anything, was the recent opening of the new $100,000 Ho-Ho Casino in the old Brighton Beach Casino, which in recent years has served as a moderate-priced bathing pavilion. The Ho-Ho is operated by a firm which made a fortune producing floor shows in New York hotels and night clubs, and it boasts a magnificent bar, a sophisticated revue and a modernistic kitchen.

Weekly Opera

Next door to the Ho-Ho, the New Brighton theatre, once famed for its vaudeville, but closed during the last season or two is presenting legitimate theatrical shows during the week and opera on Sunday nights.

Opera in Coney Island might be like an attempt to sell caviar to the masses, but crowded houses, have greeted the participating tenors and coloraturas at each performance. That bawdy farce, "Sailor Beware", played the New Brighton recently and the house's forgotten standing-room-only sign had to be dusted off and hung up on several evenings. But the acid test of whether plebeian old Coney Island is going in for better entertainment is expected to come shortly when Lillian Hellman's psychoanalytical tragedy, "The Children's Hour", tries its luck with the popcorn-loving audience in the same theatre.

All this worldliness, however, does not mean that Coney Island has lost any of its gaudy enchantment for the naive young man and his cousin from out of town. Leather-lunged barkers still exhort to passersby to pay 10 cents to view collections of incredible freaks, hot dog salesmen continue to bang merrily on their frankfurter griddles and the roller coasters lure their thrill-hungry thousands daily as they always have.

Business Is Good
And if New Yorkers and visitors object to the intrusion of high class attractions, observers cannot detect their displeasure in the resort's receipts, for Coney is enjoying its most lucrative season since the depression.

For example the Half Moon hotel is currently enjoying a gratifying upturn in business. When this impressive and rich-looking hostelry was erected, nine years ago, following the construction of the three-mile-long Coney Island Boardwalk, the old-timers looked at it, shook their heads and muttered, "Too swell for the Island". The hotel, which cost $3,500,000 to build, at first did not prosper. But the management had faith in the project, engaged David J. Martin, builder of some of the Allerton houses in Chicago, to be managing director. Martin did his job, and, today, for the first time in years the Half Moon hotel is showing a profit.

From Chicago

Another expensive new Coney Island project is the Streets of Paris night club in Luna Park. The club was designed by Tony Sarg, has a fast-moving girl revue and illusions of undraped ladies on the half-shell, in bottles and other features that proved sensation attractions at the Century of Progress in Chicago.

But perhaps the most interesting of all the signs that quaint old Coney Island has caught the modern, sophisticated spirit is a side show, a Barnum's museum, situated on Surf avenue. The front of this exhibit is decorated with the stuffed figure of a gigantic gorilla which lets out yells terrifying enough to curdle even the blood of those strong in heart and valiant of soul.

Barnum's Shams

One goes in to see horror after horror, and finds—safari! The entire career of that famous showman who said "There's a sucker born every minute" is pictured in displays of wax figures and stuffed animals. Most of the notable shams perpetrated by P. T. Barnum are reproduced in this frank sideshow expose. Among these are the fabulous "horse with his head where his tail ought to be", which was simply a quadruped turned around so that his tail rested in a bin full of oats; Zip the alleged missing link, whose hairy animal coat was found, after his death, to have been sewed on him; and the Fee Jee Merman, found, according to Barnum, by a Japanese fisherman, but eventually disclosed as only a crude, handmade body with a fish attached to it.

Coney Island has indeed changed when it can laugh at fakes and frauds similar to those which years ago made the fortunes of some of its sideshow operators.

COFFEE EXPORTS SLUMP IN INDIA

BOMBAY (UP) — The Indian coffee industry is disturbed, it is apparent from the Indian coffee statistics for 1934-1935 published by the Department of Commercial Intelligence of the Government of India. These figures reveal an enormous fall in exports. From 293,000 hundredweight in 1930-1931, total exports have dwindled to 141,000 hundredweight.

The United Kingdom, India's principal customer, took 53,000 hundredweight in the past year, or 7,000 less than in 1933-1934, while France, India's next best coffee market, took 36,000 hundredweight, compared with 50,000. Exports of Indian coffee to the Netherlands, Belgium, Germany and Italy declined from 8,000, 12,000, 17,000, and 9,000 in 1933-1934 to 1,000, 8,000, 7,000, and 6,000 hundredweight, respectively, during the past year. Shipments to Australia and New Zealand, however, increased from 5,900 to 7,200. The report shows that despite this shrinkage in foreign markets, there was an increase in acreage during the year—185,480 in 1934-1935 as against 182,978 in the preceding year.

The coffee industry is confined to southern India, comprising the Madras Presidency, Coorg, the Indian States of Mysore, Travancore and Cochin. Of the total area under coffee cultivation, Mysore accounts for 35 per cent, Madras 23, Coorg 21, and Cochin and Travancore together 1 per cent.

For the increase in acreage, however, there has been no corresponding increase in yield. In 1934-1935 the total production was 32,856,861 pounds, compared with 34,586,658 the previous year.

FEDERAL CONVICT RETURNS TO JAIL AFTER CAPTURE

CHILLICOTHE, July 30.—Andrew Kaczmarek, 21, escaped federal prisoner, was captured shortly after noon Wednesday by Patrolman Russell Poole and Deputy Sheriff Don Lowery.

After threatening Lowery with a huge crockery dish from the top of a hayrack in a barn Kaczmarek leaped through a window 15 feet from the ground, Poole took up the chase and after a long run caught and subdued the youth. According to Poole Kaczmarek put up a fight when caught.

Kaczmarek escaped from the United States Industrial Reformatory here Monday afternoon. He had been seen several times but managed, up until now today, to elude both local and reformatory officers.

The barn in which he was found is located on the Renick Dunlap property, farmed by Homer Queen, between Southern avenue and the Norfolk and Western railroad tracks.

CHAIN OF FORTS TO SPREAD OVER CENTRAL EUROPE

Czechs to Build Steel Ring Under French Eye As Ally

VIENNA, (UP) — The chain of great military forts which France built as a barrier against Germany is being copied in other parts of Europe, which is gradually becoming a criss-cross pattern of bristling steel defenses.

While Germany is supposed to be debating the erection of a Hindenburg Line facing the French Maginot Line, Czechoslovakia has jumped to action in the rush by the nations to wall themselves in against potential enemies.

The Czech Parliament has voted a defense plan which will be rapidly pushed to completion under the stress of fear of invasion. A double line of forts, it is expected, will be erected, one along the German frontier and the other to the south, facing Hungary. Indications are they will be constructed with the advice of France, whose general staff has excelled in military defense works since the days of the great French fort builder, Marshal Vauban.

Czechs Fear Germany
France and Czechoslovakia are allies and it is natural the Czech steel walls will be similar to those of the French.

All along the exposed parts of their frontiers, the Czechs will burrow under the earth, planting perfected engines of war ready to pump out death against invaders who, Czechs say, may come from Nazi Germany or Germany's friend, Hungary.

With massive forts already in place along the Franco-German, the German-Belgian and Franco-Italian frontiers, the time is not far distant when most of the nations of Europe will look out across their borders through peepholes in vast military walls filled to the top with every known type of modern munition.

Little Switzerland, hemmed in between France, Germany, Italy and Austria and, therefore, in the heart of Europe's danger area in event of war, has been caught up in the scramble for security. The French chain of forts ends near the Swiss frontier, but indications are that Switzerland will carry it on under the new defense plan.

Worried over the possibility of a flank movement through Austria which would nullify the efficacy of Czechoslovakia's new line of steel, the Prague government is said to be contemplating asking Austria to build a complementary line.

This question frequently has been debated in Vienna, but the cost involved is likely to be too heavy for the Austrian government. This country has a 200-mile frontier, from Switzerland to the Czechoslovakian frontier. While all of it would not require to be fortified, because of the mountainous nature of sections near Switzerland, the sum involved nevertheless would be beyond the nation's means for the present.

Military experts are not at all certain that Germany intends to build a chain of forts to oppose the French.

With the rapid growth of Germany's aerial force, land forts are considered as tending to be obsolete. France spent hundreds of millions on the 10 years' task of building a chain of 300 forts along the Rhineland.

Ross County Jury Finds Woman Guilty of Manslaughter; Killed Husband

CHILLICOTHE, July 30. — A Ross county jury late Wednesday found Mrs. Flossie Dixon, 25, guilty of manslaughter in the murder of her husband, Hubert, 41. The State asked the death penalty, claiming Dixon's death was a premeditated effort to obtain his bonus money.

The jury deliberated four hours and 40 minutes before bringing in the lesser finding.

The verdict carries a sentence of one to 20 years.

Mrs. Dixon smiled when she left the courtroom. She was the first woman to face a Ross county jury on a first degree murder charge since 1910.

Testifying in her own defense Wednesday afternoon, the woman said she remembered loading the death pistol but did not remember what happened afterward.

Nervously testifying in a low voice she said her husband threatened to have her evicted from their home. Dixon was slain July 6.

Eleven men and one woman comprised the jury.

Lester Reid, prosecutor, represented the state and Willard Walter the defense.

HALF OF LAND NEEDED FOR RURAL RESETTLEMENT UNDER OPTION NOW

160 FARMSTEADS ARE LISTED FOR SCIOTO PROJECT

53,000 Acres Signed up by Beck and Aides; Designs Prepared

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., July 30.—The regional headquarters of the Resettlement Administration today announced that it has obtained options on more than half the land to be purchased for Rural Resettlement projects in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, and Missouri.

Philip G. Beck, assistant regional director in charge of Rural Resettlement operations, stated that options have already been taken on approximately 53,000 acres of fertile land in the four states.

"We will need about 80,000 acres of productive land for the seven projects we are planning," Beck said. "Thus far, we have made sufficient progress in our land purchase negotiations to proceed with the planning of farmsteads and designs of farm buildings for six of the projects."

Based on Appraisals

"The speed with which these projects can be carried out will depend largely on our ability to procure the necessary acreage at reasonable prices. We are taking options only from the real owners of farm land and we are offering prices based on appraisals made by men well acquainted with land values."

"Land owners who forfeit selling right to others cannot hope to sell their land to the government. We cannot penalize the prospective occupants of resettlement farmsteads with the additional burden of paying for speculators' profits on the land they will farm."

The six projects which have been approved for planning of construction are:

- Scioto Farms, Ohio; 160 farmsteads.
- Ohio Farms, Ohio; 200 farmsteads.
- Valley Farms, Indiana; 200 farmsteads.
- Wabash Farms, Indiana; 200 farmsteads.
- Osage Farms, Missouri; 150 farmsteads.
- Southeast Missouri; 300 families.
- The seventh project, Gallatin

MICHIGAN AIDS WAR ON PLAGUE

GAYLORD, Mich. — (UP) — Ruddy-faced and broad-shouldered Fred Ming, one-time sheriff of Cheboygan county and a state representative, became a man with an "idea" when tuberculosis claimed the lives of his three brothers while they were still in their 20s.

Ming wanted a tuberculosis sanatorium for the upper tier counties of Michigan's lower peninsula.

So he became a state representative, and then speaker of the House at Lansing. He advocated a bill for taxation of malt, the revenue to be used for a tuberculosis hospital for the 37 northern counties.

Voted By Brucker

The bill was passed by the state legislature, but Gov. Wilbur Brucker, an ardent dry who knew malt was used to make beer, vetoed the bill.

Ming was not downcast. He moved through the cloakrooms. "I don't care," he told his fellow legislators, "where that hospital is built. Put it in Cheboygan county or anywhere else, just so it's convenient."

When he hesitated, he said: "Tuberculosis is killing 150 to 200 persons a year because we lack hospital facilities."

Dream Becomes Reality

The bill was passed over the governor's veto. During the intervening years since 1933, $250,000 was set aside in malt tax monies. The federal government supplied an additional $204,000, and the ground was broken here this month.

Several state notables, including Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald, Paul A. Martin, of the sanatorium building commission, and doctors, were present. They all spaded a shovel of earth. Then Ming, now an old man, lumbered through the crowd. Before he bent to the work, he picked up a stone turned up by other shovels.

"I think," he said in a thickened voice, "I'll just keep this."

An arrest for speeding and a fatal traffic accident open the Paramount thriller-romance "And Sudden Death," coming Friday and Saturday to the Cliftona theatre. The picture is inspired by the Reader's Digest article which made a national sensation when it appeared recently.

Frances Drake appears as the speed-loving, irresponsible daughter of a wealthy citizen. Arrested for reckless driving, she falls in love with Randolph Scott, police official who is leading a battle against highway killing.

The romance of the pair is shattered when Miss Drake is tried and convicted of manslaughter, after she has taken the blame for an auto crash her brother has caused. Scott's testimony in the trial is important in leading to the girl's imprisonment.

A death-bed confession by the wayward brother frees Miss Drake, and the romance is patched up.

REPEAL ISSUE TOPS PRIMARY IN TENNESSEE

Local Option is Favored by One Candidate for Governor

By H. L. SAMFORD
United Press Staff Correspondent
NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 30 — (UP)—Repeal of state prohibition laws will be one of the important issues facing voters of this state when they go to the primary polls Aug. 6 to nominate Democratic candidates.

There will be no Republican state primary. The state committee named a few candidates, but none of them has campaigned for major offices. Democratic nominations are tantamount to election.

While there is no fight of national significance in the state, the internal strife has been bitter. The race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, in which loyalty to President Roosevelt and the TVA has been made a paramount issue, has been lively.

Legionaire in Race
Gordon Browning, of Huntingdon, former congressman and Burgh Dossett, of Jacksboro, former state American Legion head and country school superintendent, are the major contenders.

C. E. Wright, of Oneida, the third candidate, has campaigned little.

Dossett favors a local option form of liquor control, while Browning promises a statewide referendum for the desire of the people.

Crump Supports Browning
Former Rep. E. H. "Boss" Crump, of Memphis, head of the Shelby county political organization, has given his unqualified support to Browning. Sen. Kenneth D. McKellar has come out for Dossett.

In Memphis, the state's most populous city, repeal is a vital issue. Thousands of dollars are spent annually there for legal liquor from Arkansas, just across the Mississippi river. Business men long have protested against this flow of money outside the state.

The race for the congressional seat from the fifth (Nashville) district, left vacant by the recent death of Speaker Joseph W. Byrns, is centered in a three-way fight between Will T. Cheek, financier; Carlton Loser, county attorney-general and Richard Atkinson, former county attorney-general, all of Nashville.

Junior U. S. Sen. Nathan Bachman, up for renomination, is expected to win easily over his opponent, John R. Neal, Knoxville.

HALF OF LAND NEEDED FOR RURAL RESETTLEMENT UNDER OPTION

166 FARMSTEADS ARE LISTED FOR SCIOTO PROJECT

53,000 Acres Signed up by Beck and Aides; Designs Prepared

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., July 30.—The regional headquarters of the Resettlement Administration today announced that it has obtained options on more than half the land to be purchased for Rural Resettlement projects in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, and Missouri.

Philip G. Beck, assistant regional director in charge of Rural Resettlement operations, stated that options have already been taken on approximately 53,000 acres of fertile land in the four states.

"We will need about 80,000 acres of productive land for the seven projects we are planning," Beck said. "Thus far, we have made sufficient progress in our land purchase negotiations to proceed with the planning of farmsteads and designs of farm buildings for six of the projects."

Based on Appraisals

"The speed with which these projects can be carried out will depend largely on our ability to procure the necessary acreage at reasonable prices. We are taking options only from the real owners of farm land and we are offering prices based on appraisals made by men well acquainted with land values."

"Land owners who forfeit selling right to others cannot hope to sell their land to the government. We cannot penalize the prospective occupants of resettlement farmsteads with the additional burden of paying for speculators' profits on the land they will farm."

The six projects which have been approved for planning of construction are:

Scioto Farms, Ohio; 166 farmsteads.

Ohio Farms, Ohio; 200 farmsteads.

Valley Farms, Indiana; 200 farmsteads.

Wabash Farms, Indiana; 200 farmsteads.

Osage Farms, Missouri; 150 farmsteads.

Southeast Missouri; 300 farmsteads.

The seventh project, Gallatin

DIFFICULT TASK FACED IN PROBE OF GIRL'S DEATH

Sheriff Says Study May Continue Long While; Believes
Gaddy is Key

ASHEVILLE, N. C., July 30 — (UP)—Sheriff Laurence E. Brown said today he is determined to solve the mysterious murder two weeks ago of Helen Clevenger "no matter how long it takes."

There will be no let-up in the investigation into the ravishing and slaying of the 19-year-old New York university honor student despite lack of progress so far, the sheriff said.

"It's going to be a very difficult job, and it may take a long time," Brown said. "But I'm going to stay on it no matter how long it takes."

He centered his hopes on Daniel Gaddy, 28-year-old night watchman at the hotel where Miss Clevenger was slain. Although reiterating he did not believe Gaddy had any direct connection with the crime, Brown said:

Gaddy Holding Back
"Gaddy is holding back something. If he would tell me the truth we would get somewhere. He is the key to this whole mystery. When he talks we'll solve this crime."

Gaddy is the only one of seven persons taken into custody still held. No charge has been placed against him although he has been held in Buncombe county jail for 10 days. He has steadfastly denied any knowledge of what took place on the floor on which Miss Clevenger's room was located the night of the slaying.

He admitted failure to punch the time clock outside her room at 1 a. m. July 16,—about the time the girl was brutally beaten and shot to death—because he said, he was worrying about his wife's illness.

Two Asheville detectives were in Washington today to enlist aid of department of justice laboratory experts, but their findings were not expected to shed any light upon the identity of the murderer. The detectives, James Dayton and Robert Patton, took a strip of rug upon which Miss Clevenger's body was found for analysis to determine the type of blood on it.

VICTORIA, B. C. July 30 — (UP)—Horton Smith of Chicago today held the $3,000 prize in the Victoria Open golf tournament as he led a group of professionals to Seattle, when play in the $5,000 open there begins Friday.

Smith rallied to shoot a 68 over the final 18 holes here yesterday, and count a score of 299, three under par, for the Honors. Byron Nelson of Ridgewood, N. J., who trailed Smith most of the way, was tied with him at 54 holes, but slipped on the last 18. He finished with a score of 272.

Lee Pledges All Support to
President Roosevelt

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 30. — (UP)—The cowboy congressman, Percy Lee Gassaway, today was part of the political wreckage left by Monday's Democratic runoff primary.

The victor over Gassaway was Lyle Boren, a 27-year-old former WPA worker and a teacher. The margin was more than 3,000 votes out of 65,000 cast in the fourth district.

Gassaway rode to national prominence by sarcastic attacks on the late Huey Long, ridicule of the Townsend pension plan and sponsorship of a birth control bill. He is father of 14 children.

Meanwhile, Rep. Josh Lee, the former education teacher who left the University of Oklahoma to get into politics, offered a program which included unqualified support of President Roosevelt and the New Deal.

Lee smashed Gov. E. W. Marland's hopes of being Democratic nominee for the senator by a record majority.

THOUSANDS SIGN DAVEY PETITION

Vote on Sales Tax Law Certain in November

COLUMBUS, July 30. — (UP)—With still another week remaining in which to gather signatures on Governor Davey's anti-sales tax petitions, the governor's office today announced that it had sufficient names to assure a vote on the proposition.

In order to put the proposed constitutional amendment on the November ballot, 220,000 names on the petitions are required. That number has been passed, the office said, but the petitions will continue to be circulated to get as many names as possible.

These names must be checked by election boards to determine their validity. Previously Governor Davey had said he would attempt to get 500,000 names to be safe.

The proposition to be put on the ballot would forbid the collection of the sales tax on food for home consumption. It would be effective Nov. 11.

Home "Unscrambling" Starts

PASADENA, Cal. (UP)—American families are just beginning to get "unscrambled," according to A. L. Lathrop, of the California Bankers' Association. Nurse Testifies in Thorpe-Astor Divorce

LOS ANGELES, July 30. — (UP)—Screen star Mary Astor and her former husband, Dr. Franklin Thorpe, accused one another of misconduct today, naming names and dates. It marked a new level of bitterness in their fight over the custody of their four-year-old daughter.

While little Marilyn's nurse testified in superior court last night that to her knowledge four different women had spent nights in Dr. Thorpe's bedroom, his attorneys filed an affidavit with the court that Miss Astor had been "enamored of a certain married man."

The affidavit quoted from a diary in which, Dr. Thorpe alleges, Miss Astor recorded the high spots of her life for the future edification of her daughter.

The quotation:
"Feb. 8, 1935: I love George, and the least I can do is save him from a messy scandal. Maybe I am being foolishly gallant about it, and again, maybe I can do one nice thing in my life."

Marilyn's nurse — Nellie Richardson, a bespectacled, trim little woman — acknowledged that her observations extended beyond the nursery during the year she cared for the child, part of the time while the father was in charge, part while the mother had custody.

Skilfully guided by Miss Astor's attorney, Miss Richardson said that "many times" she had served breakfast to Dr. Thorpe and one or another of four women in Dr. Thorpe's bedroom. Though the room had twin beds, she said she had noted that only one had been occupied.

Miss Richardson first named Norma Taylor and identified her from a photograph. Previous witnesses had testified that Dr. Thorpe once called police to his home to "restrain" Miss Taylor. Miss Astor is the plaintiff in the present litigation. Her purpose is threefold; she wishes the court to set aside the probate order that gave Dr. Thorpe full custody of Marilyn and award her custody; to set aside the divorce Dr. Thorpe obtained last spring and annul their marriage on the ground that Dr. Thorpe already was married at the time it was contracted to set aside a property settlement agreed to at the time of divorce.

DIFFICULT TASK AGED IN PROBE OF GIRL'S DEATH

Sheriff Says Study May Continue Long While; Believes
Gaddy is Key

ASHEVILLE, N. C., July 30 — (UP)—Sheriff Laurence E. Brown said today he is determined to solve the mysterious murder two weeks ago of Helen Cleveland "no matter how long it takes."

There will be no let-up in the investigation into the ravishing and slaying of the 19-year-old New York university honor student despite lack of progress so far, the sheriff said.

"It's going to be a very difficult job, and it may take a long time," Brown said. "But I'm going to stay on it no matter how long it takes."

He centered his hopes on Daniel Gaddy, 28-year-old night watchman at the hotel where Miss Cleveland was slain. Although refuting he did not believe Gaddy had any direct connection with the crime, Brown said:

Gaddy Holding Back
"Gaddy is holding back something. If he would tell me the truth we would get somewhere. He is the key to this whole mystery. When he talks we'll solve this crime."

Gaddy is the only one of seven persons taken into custody still held. No charge has been placed against him although he has been held in Buncombe county jail for 10 days. He has steadfastly denied any knowledge of what took place on the floor on which Miss Cleveland's room was located the night of the slaying.

He admitted failure to punch the time clock outside her room at 1 a. m. July 16—about the time the girl was brutally beaten and shot to death—because he said, he was worrying about his wife's illness.

Two Asheville detectives were in Washington today to enlist aid of department of justice laboratory experts, but their findings were not expected to shed any light upon the identity of the murderer.

The detectives, James Dayton and Robert Patton, took a strip of rug upon which Miss Cleveland's body was found for analysis to determine the type of blood on it.

HORTON SMITH WINNER OF VICTORIA TOURNEY

VICTORIA, B. C. July 30 — (UP)—Horton Smith of Chicago today held the $3,000 prize in the Victoria Open golf tournament as he led a group of professionals to Seattle, when play in the $5,000 open ends Friday.

Smith rallied to shoot a 68 over the final 18 holes here yesterday, and count a score of 299, three under par, for the Honors. Byron Nelson of Ridgewood, N. J., who trailed Smith most of the way, was tied with him at 54 holes, but slipped on the last 18. He finished with a score of 272.

REP. GASSAWAY LOSES PRIMARY

Lee Pledges All Support to
President Roosevelt

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 30. — (UP)—The cowboy congressman, Percy Lee Gassaway, today was part of the political wreckage left by Monday's Democratic runoff primary.

The victor over Gassaway was Lyle Boren, a 27-year-old former WPA worker and a teacher. The margin was more than 3,000 votes out of 65,000 cast in the fourth district.

Gassaway rode to national prominence by sarcastic attacks on the late Huey Long, ridicule of the Townsend pension plan and sponsorship of a birth control bill. He is father of 14 children.

Meanwhile, Rep. Josh Lee, the former education teacher who left the University of Oklahoma to get into politics, offered a program which included unqualified support of President Roosevelt and the New Deal.

Lee smashed Gov. E. W. Marshall's hopes of being Democratic nominee for the senator by a record majority.

SHAUGHNESSEY IN LEAD FOR STAR COACHING JOB

CHICAGO, July 30. — (UP)—Shaughnessey of the University of Chicago held a lead of 7,000 points today as early returns were tabulated in the newspaper poll to select a head coach for the 1936 college all-stars. Shaughnessey had 33,789 points, Bo McMillin, Indiana, 26,979; Lynn Waldorf, Northwestern, 22,527; and Bernie Bierman, Minnesota, 22,054. The all-stars were picked to play the Detroit Lions, professional champions.

THOUSANDS SIGN DAVEY PETITION

Vote on Sales Tax Law Certain in November

COLUMBUS, July 30.—(UP)—With still another week remaining in which to gather signatures on Governor Davey's anti-sales tax petitions, the governor's office today announced that it had sufficient names to assure a vote on the proposition.

In order to put the proposed constitutional amendment on the November ballot, 220,000 names on the petitions are required. That number has been passed, the office said, but the petitions will continue to be circulated to get as many names as possible. These names must be checked by election boards to determine their validity. Previously Governor Davey had said he would attempt to get 500,000 names to be safe.

The proposition to be put on the ballot would forbid the collection of the sales tax on food for home consumption. It would be effective Nov. 11.

Romantic Verse Found Among Library Volumes

Romantic verse, narrative poems and nonsense jungles are included in a small volume just received at the Circleville Library. All of the poems are especially good to read aloud, or to take off in a corner and enjoy by one's self. "The Poet's Craft" has an endearing charm in its friendly, wide, human and unacademic selection.

This is an anthology of verse intended for High School students, and the final selection is a challenge to young people to try their hands at poetry, and contains some samples of students verse. Eighth grade pupils who are interested in writing and reading poetry will find this stimulating introduction to the pleasures of the craft. "The Poet's Craft," edited by Helen Fern Daringer and Anne Thaxter Eaton is included in the Ohio Pupils' Reading Circle for 1936-1937.

Hop Crop to be Failure

SALEM, Ore. (UP)—This year's hop crop will be the smallest the world has ever known, growers here say. The Pacific Coast crop, more than half of which is grown in the Willamette Valley of Oregon, has been attacked by downy mildew, caused by excessive wet weather.

RAINFALL HELPS OHIO GARDENERS PLAN PERENNIALS

COLUMBUS, July 30—Now that local rains have somewhat allayed gardeners' apprehensions about Ohio becoming apart of the Great American Desert, Victor H. Ries, specialist in floriculture, Ohio State university, says it is time to make preparations for next year's perennials.

Best results in starting these plants will be obtained if the seeds used are fresh, and this means seed from this year's crop planted in early August. The planting should be made in a well prepared seedbed made in a cold bed is one prepared by mixing sand and finely screened peat moss.

This material, if clean sand is used, does not contain any weed seeds; and after it is thoroughly moistened, provides an ideal medium for the growth of the seedlings. The sides of the coldframe provide some protection against winds and a muslin cover will shield the plants from the sun's rays, will decrease the evaporation of moisture from the seedbed, and prevents seeds of weeds or grasses from blowing into the coldframe.

Mr. Ries says it is a good plan to sterilize the peat moss and sand mixture before placing it in the seedbed. This can be done by putting the material in an oven and heating it to 212 degrees Fahrenheit. This kills damping-off fungus that might be present. Additional protection against fungus diseases can be provided by dusting the seeds themselves with red copper oxide or by dusting zinc white, zinc oxide over the surface of the soil after the seeds have been planted.

Some perennial seeds germinate slowly and it may be a week or a month until all the seedlings are up. The seedbed should not be allowed to dry out during this period and the watering should be done carefully to avoid washing small seeds from one part of the bed to another. The seedlings may be left in the coldframe until next spring or they may be transferred to another coldframe where they will be protected during the winter.

A partial list of the perennials which grow well from seed include coreopsis, gaillardia, delphinium, Shasta daisy, loosestrife, balloon flower, veronica, oriental poppy, Jupiter's beard, snow-in-snow, hardy pinks, and sweet William. Mr. Ries will give information about other perennials to anyone who writes to him at Columbus.

If you can't breakfast in bed, you can get the same effect by dropping toast crumbs down the back of your neck.

CAMP OHIO, FOR CLUB MEMBERS TO OPEN AUG. 16

Each County Advised to Name Boy and Girl to Attend Sessions

COLUMBUS, July 30—The first camp to give Ohio 4-H club members a better knowledge of the conservation problems of the state and nation will be held at Camp Ohio, August 16 to 19, and each county in the state is asked to send two delegates.

Those who attend the camp must be at least 16 years old and W. H. Palmer, state club leader, has suggested that a boy and a girl represent each county. Funds have been provided to pay the expenses of conducting the camp except for a registration fee of one dollar for each member and the transportation to camp and back home.

A staff of people prominent in the field of conservation will be at the camp to give instruction to those attending. The program will include the conservation of human beings as well as the conservation of wild life, soil, water, and forests. Dr. Lawrence Snyder, Ohio State university, Dr. Mary Ann Graber, Columbus, and Virgil Overholt, Ohio State University, will tell classes how to maintain health or to improve living conditions.

Many Classes Planned
D. R. Dodd and F. W. Dean, specialists, Ohio State university, will have charge of classes on soil, water, and plants. Dr. G. W. Conrey and Elizabeth Burrage, both of the agricultural experiment station, Wooster, will have charge of the instruction in geology and drainage. The soil conservation service at Zanesville is represented on the teaching staff by Charles Dambach, Eugene Good, and Charles Walker.

The 4-H Club members will learn about birds, animals, and general biology from talks and field trips. The men in charge of this work will be Prof. E. L. Dakan, Dr. Lawrence Hicks, and Dr. Lawrence Snyder, all from Ohio State university, and Arthur Harper and H. E. Eswine, both naturalists lying in Columbus. Roscoe Franks, secretary, Save Outdoor Ohio Association, will tell the campers how they can assist the Association.

The forestry staff will include F. W. Dean, Ohio State university, and B. E. Leete, state forester, Chillicothe. Archery will be taught by A. L. Pierstorff and marksmanship with firearms by R. J. Barden; both of these men are from Ohio State. Instruction in games and folk dancing will be given by William Smith, Jr., Ohio State.

Selection of club members to attend the camp be made by extension agents in the counties with the advice of local leaders. Many of the clubs in the state are carrying on work in conservation with the intention of improving and preserving the natural resources of the state.

Romantic Verse Found Among Library Volumes

Romantic verse, narrative poems and nonsensical jingles are included in a small volume just received at the Circleville Library. All of the poems are especially good to read aloud, or to take off in a corner and enjoy by one's self. "The Poet's Craft" has an endearing charm in its friendly, wide, human and unacademic selection.

This is an anthology of verse intended for High School students, and the final selection is a challenge to young people to try their hands at poetry, and contains some samples of students verse.

Eighth grade pupils who are interested in writing and reading poetry will find this stimulating introduction to the pleasures of the craft. "The Poet's Craft," edited by Helen Fern Daringer and Anne Thaxter Eaton is included in the Ohio Pupils' Reading Circle for 1936-1937.

SWIMMING
Timely books for every season

A common sense method of learning to swim without an instructor. The book is illustrated with pen drawings that show clearly every movement in swimming.

SWIMMING AND DIVING—by Gerald Barnes. An older book that is still useful.

SWIMMING, instructions for beginners. A Washington Bureau leaflet.

HOW TO TEACH YOURSELF TO SWIM—by Harry Hazlehurst. A "Little Blue Book" pamphlet.

AN OUTLAW HORSE
It took five cowboys to catch "Hurricane Pinto," but the author, Thomas C. Hinkle, gives a realistic portrait of a most gallant and lively horse in a thrilling western adventure story for older boys.

Two other stories by the same writer have been very popular with young readers, who borrow books from the Circleville Library. These two stories are: "Tornado Boys", a horse of the West and "Shag", the story of a dog.

HOBBIES FOR HOME.

A few titles, from the catalog at the Public Library, suggest books that tell "How To Amuse Yourself and Others, How To Collect Stamps, Draw, Enjoy Music, Have Bird Neighbors, Know the Butterflies, Know the Wild Flowers, Make Baskets, Play Golf, Produce Amateur Plays, Read Poetry, Tell Stories to Children, Write a Play, Learn to Swim."

Hop Crop to be Failure

SALEM, Ore. (UP)—This year's hop crop will be the smallest the world has ever known, growers here say. The Pacific Coast crop, more than half of which is grown in the Willamette Valley of Oregon, has been attacked by downy mildew, caused by excessive wet weather.

RAINFALL HELPS OHIO GARDENERS PLAN PERENNIALS

COLUMBUS, July 30—Now that local rains have somewhat allayed gardeners' apprehensions about Ohio becoming apart of the Great American Desert, Victor H. Ries, specialist in floriculture, Ohio State university, says it is time to make preparations for next year's perennials.

Best results in starting these plants will be obtained if the seeds used are fresh, and these means seed from this year's crop planted in early August. The planting should be made in a well prepared seedbed made in a cold-bed is one prepared by mixing sand and finely screened peat moss.

This material, if clean sand is used, does not contain any weed seeds; and after it is thoroughly moistened, provides an ideal medium for the growth of the seedlings. The sides of the coldframe provide some protection against winds and a muslin cover will shield the plants from the sun's rays, will decrease the evaporation of moisture from the seed-bed, and prevents seeds of weeds or grasses from blowing into the coldframe.

Mr. Ries says it is a good plan to sterilize the peat moss and sand mixture before placing it in the seedbed. This can be done by putting the material in an oven and heating it to 212 degrees Fahrenheit. This kills damping-off fungus that might be present. Additional protection against fungus diseases can be provided by dusting the seeds themselves with red copper oxide or by dusting zinc white, zinc oxide over the surface of the soil after the seeds have been planted.

Some perennial seeds germinate slowly and it may be a week or a month until all the seeds have up. The seedlings should be allowed to dry out a period and the seedlings should be done carefully to avoid the bed to another. They may be left in the coldframe next spring or they may be transferred to another coldframe; they will be protected during winter.

A partial list of the perennials which grow well from seed include: gaillardia, delphinium, St. Basil, daisy, loosestrife, balloon flower, veronica, oriental poppy, Japanese beard, snow-in-summers, hollyhocks, and sweet William. Mr. Ries will give information about other perennials to anyone who writes to him at Columbus.

If you can't breakfast in bed, you can get the same effect by dropping toast crumbs down the back of your neck.

HUMAN GUINEA PIG

CARL ERICKSON has found his newly-gained liberty something to write home about—if he had a home. Until recently he was a prisoner in a Colorado penitentiary and faced the hopeless monotony of spending the rest of his life behind high walls. Perhaps the thought of escape came to him but was evidently abandoned. He simply had resigned himself to the life of a felon and never hoped to see the outside world again.

If a certain incident had never happened, Carl Erickson probably would never be more than a number and ultimately would have found a convict's grave. But fate directed otherwise and Carl Erickson today is a free man, due to his honesty and courage. In December of 1934, Erickson and a fellow lifer, Mike Schmidt, were pardoned by Governor Johnson for their contribution to science. It was not an easy thing that they were called on to do. They merely were to serve as human guinea pigs in the interests of science and if they lived they could go free.

It is to Erickson's credit that he disavowed any motives in the interests of science. He said he was taking the long chance in order that he might go free. Many men in similar positions would have used some lofty phrases about helping mankind. Not Carl Erickson. He simply gambled his life against the ravages of a tuberculosis serum, and won.

LEMKE, THERE HE STANDS

THE campaign for the presidency still is in its infancy, and so there is every possibility that Congressman Lemke, one of the candidates, will give even more startling demonstrations of his capacity as the repository of weird economic panaceas.

Mr. Lemke has swallowed at one gulp the Coughlin plan of a bank board to regulate all money and credit. He has taken unto himself the Long plan for the confiscation of all wealth and the Townsend $200 a month old age pension scheme. And, of course, he has his own pet plan to have the government take up all bonds by issuing its own "money."

Before the campaign grows older, no doubt, there will be other schemes to make life easy and pleasant through the elimination of fiscal trials and problems. It seems quite safe to say in advance that Mr. Lemke stands ready to become their champion.

He asks no questions concerning such extraneous matters as soundness, responsibility or practicability. All that is necessary is that they shall be sufficiently fantastic and he will adopt and nourish them as his own.

The cynic wasn't always that way. He used to be a sucker or he wouldn't be a cynic.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . Hour by Hour

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

First up in the house, so a quiet session with the morning paper learning nothing of more vital importance than that the Reds dropped a double-header to the Giants, that a movie star wears more than her weight in makeup each year and that Mary Astor of the cinema is in another jam. From the news display and headlines of those publications on Columbus way one may infer that they are opposed to Franklin Delano, but they were opposed to him four years ago and against Martin L. Davey two years ago and look what happened.

This ville of ours appears to be catching its second wind and is climbing back toward prosperity anyway. The other side in Circleville for the first six years of the year averaged 100 per cent, which is higher than the city average. The same point there came from the nation's capital along with information that of the county's 6,381 families 4,000 now have radios. And if Court street on a hot night may be taken as an indication every family has at least a half dozen automobiles. We get along in this district, probably because we are so close to the land.

See by the papers where some scientists declare that the world's heat zone is moving northward. Zosh! Where was it last winter, or didn't it start the northward trek until spring? Another blessing of the summer season is that Jack Armstrong is off the air although that breathless announcer of his remains with us. Headed west on Main street a ten ton truck in the charge of a man big enough to handle it and all the rough problems of trucking. From the cabin the sound of a radio—"So the little mouse said to the big bad cat you was fetched up wrong when you act mean to dumb animals." Almost run down by a flivver as stared in amazement after the big vehicle. There is Eddie Rothman home after a vacation trip, and Henry Mader, who reports a record attendance at his drawing for the week. Here comes Charles Weidinger, Charlie Mack's energetic assistant, and Ward Peck, in from his fine farm in Wayne township. There goes Mrs. C. H. Palm, head of the Washington township P.T.A. and here is Elliott Voll, the tailor, proud of improvements in his quarters and issuing an invitation for an inspection trip against which did make a note. John Lowden the increasingly popular manager of the Stiffler store planning great undertakings for August. Pat Yates, C. D. Brunner and Ned Green the gas dispenser and gaffer.

There go the Eggs, heading south to the Dave Dunlap farm for annual picnic, the door frolic of the year and one of the best of the kind held here.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

NORTH DAKOTANS LIKE ROOSEVELT

BISMARCK, N. D. — Striking out due west of Fargo, you come across the drought in all its frightfulness. Farther east the fields were covered with sparse, dry corn or low, parched wheat. But here nothing grows. Nothing at all.

Even the telegraph poles are gone, and the fences trail on the ground sometimes for half a mile along the road side. Horses, cattle get fewer and fewer, finally disappearing altogether.

The ground rolls slightly, dipping, rising to a crest from which you can see for seven or eight miles in all directions. On the left is a big irregular patch of grayish dirt—a lake-bed, dried and withered, criss-crossed with crazy streaks all over its dusty surface.

No trees anywhere. Just land, land, scrub-grass, sand, Russian cactus, and perhaps a plowed field bristling with the abortive corn or barley that will never rise above an inch or two in height. Here and there small groups of dirty low-lying houses proclaim a "farm". Chickens cluck around in the dirt, a dog lies panting by a shed, too exhausted even to bark at a passing car. No humans in sight. Only miles and miles of land, desolate, bare, lifeless, wretched soil.

HITCH-HIKER

The road detours, and for more miles we ride over rocks and gravel. A lone figure stands by the wayside begging for a lift. We stop. He climbs in. We start talking and he tells the story of his life.

Raised on a farm 60 miles north in Rugby, his father owns the hardware store. They're French-Canadians and he's one of fourteen children. Things got pretty hard three years back so he decided to get out.

He'd always fought with his brothers—boxing and wrestling—so he joined up with a carnival that toured the Northwest. He and another fellow took on all comers in towns and villages. He's now fought about a hundred times and been beaten four. Never had been taught—just sort of picked it up as he went along.

He's come back to the store each year for a spell, then out loose again. Father objected at first, then after he'd see him fight a couple of times he was all for it. Has another brother fighting somewhere around Chicago.

Now he's going home to help with the harvest. After that—well, he didn't know. He wanted to get into the fight game someday, but it's mighty tough unless you have pull.

I asked what his folks thought about Roosevelt. Probably they was all pretty strong for him, he thought, because they was all going to vote for him. All the French-Canadians—his own people—and the German-Russians was all for Roosevelt.

A hick town is one where you have to hunt all over it for the fellow with the key to the fire house.

A Boston preacher reports back that the Germans are "the happiest, most contented and best dressed people in Europe." And what else did Hitler say?

Love isn't Important

By LOUISE JERROLD

COPYRIGHT L. C. PAGE & CO., INC. RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:

Gay Elwell, check girl in a prominent Detroit club, meets a number of social elite when she fills in at a dinner party at the request of Dr. Wilson, a club member. One of them is Brock Carter, who, a few evenings later, takes her to a speakeasy and gambling house. Brock becomes infatuated and tries to force his affections on Gay. Trying to repulse him, her hand is badly burned by his cigarettes and she leaves him hurriedly. After work, Dr. Wilson, noticing Gay's hand, takes her to his home to treat the burn.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 9

GAY TRIED hard to appear at ease as she entered Doctor Wilson's surgery, but the wicked glitter of knives, the mysterious apparatus, the surgical chairs and tables, all filled her with dread. And how queer that the doctor should have brought her here, to his own house. His wife was away—he'd admitted that, quite frankly. What would Jean say to this?

"Are these your offices?" she inquired, nervously. "No. My regular offices are downtown." Doctor Wilson had hung up his hat and overcoat, and was scrubbing his hands. "I thought it would be easier to bring you up here. Easier for me, you understand. All I'll have to do when I finish with that hand of yours, is send you home, and then get to bed." He glanced at Gay over his shoulders, and something in her face brought a gleam of mischief to his tired eyes. "Ye Gods, child, you're not worried, I hope?" He burst into a roar of laughter.

Instantly, all Gay's apprehension disappeared. The sanity, the clean friendliness of that laughter warmed her heart. All men weren't like Brock, after all. Somehow, Gay's mind switched to Doctor Wilson, she thought, if you really got to know him. Kind, and funny, and whimsical.

"Oh no, Doctor Wilson," she laughed with him. "Of course I'm not worried. Only—"

"Only what?" The doctor finished drying his hands, and turned to look at her. His glance was shrewd. "May I can guess. You're a good-looking youngster. I suppose you've been having some experiences lately that have made you distrust men in general. Isn't that it? Well, let me tell you something. You're as safe with me, young and sweet and pretty as you are, as if you were in God's pocket. Can you believe that?"

"Good. I like you, Gay. You're a nice kid. You've got spunk—"

"You showed that when you stood up to that crowd of nobles the other night, and told 'em all who you were. I liked that. I said to my wife, 'Marian, if we had a daughter, the best we could ask of her would be to have courage like that. The grit to look a roomful of people straight in the eye, and say what you said.' Yes, sir. If I had a daughter—and it's a rotten shame I haven't, nor a son, either—"

He paused. "Well, that's that. Now let's get down to business. I don't think we need bother with an anesthetic."

The operation was begun and completed almost before Gay realized. So swift, so skillful, so gentle were those deft fingers; then, in a jiffy, the work was done, a neat bandage wrapped about the injured hand, and it was all over.

"There! That wasn't so bad, was it?" the doctor asked. "Why, it wasn't anything," Gay assured him, gamely. "I thought you were really going to hurt me!"

She sat back, a little white and limp, but smiling with relief. As if by magic, the throbbing in her hand had disappeared, subsiding to a dull ache which was nothing compared to the torture she'd suffered during the past few days.

Poems That Live

"LET ME ENJOY"

Let me enjoy the earth no less
Because the alien-enacting Might
That fashioned forth its loveliness
Had other aims than my delight.

About my path there fits a Fair,
Who throws me not a word or sign;
I will find charm in her smile,
And laugh those lips not meant for mine.

From manuscripts of moving song
Inspired by scenes and souls unknown,
I'll pour out raptures that belong
To others, as they were my own.

Perhaps some day, toward Paradise
And all its bliss, if such should be,
I shall lift glad, afar-off eyes,
Though I cannot now place for me.

— Thomas Hardy.

It's almost as if we were married, she thought.

"I can't ever thank you enough, Doctor Wilson. You're the kindest person I know!"

"Sure, that's me," he grinned. "Benefactor of humanity. Great chap. That's what all my patients say. Tell the first of the month, when I send my bills in."

Gay laughed, too. "Be sure to send me one!"

"Don't be silly." The doctor was washing his hands again. He shouted over the noise of running water and brisk scrubbing. "How'd you like a cup of hot coffee, right now?"

"I'd simply love it."

He pressed an electric button, and a few moments later a diminutive Japanese man-servant stuck his head in at the doorway.

"Nagao, we want coffee and sandwiches. In the library. Little dainty ones for the young lady—and big husky ones, on rye bread, for me."

Presently, Gay was curled up in the depths of a huge, leather-upholstered chair in the library, and feeling that heaven must be something like this: the pain in her hand, quite gone; soft lamp light gleaming on the rows of beautiful bound books that lined three sides of the paneled walls from floor to ceiling. This was living. This was the ease and luxury and loveliness she'd always longed for.

Doctor Wilson sat opposite. They had been talking of many different things, books, and places, and people—at least, the doctor had been talking while Gay listened, entirely at ease, now and then putting in a word or two.

"It's almost as if we were married," she thought. And she pictured in her mind what it might be like to be married to a man of the doctor's type: keen-witted, clever, successful. Unconsciously, she sighed.

"What's wrong? Hand bothering you again?"

Gay shook her head. "It's so beautiful here, I'll hate to go home."

"You like this library of mine?"

"I think it's perfect."

The doctor seemed pleased. "Most women don't care for this type of room. Too somber. Marian seldom comes in here." He paused for a moment, his eyes fixed on Gay's face. "Where do you live, Gay? At home, with your family? What sort of people are they?"

She was a trifle startled by the abrupt change of subject, but led on by the man's adroit, sympathetic questioning, she soon found herself telling what little there was to be told. She spoke of her father, an ambitious, hard-working lawyer in a small city in northern Michigan. She told of his sudden death; of the gallant struggle of the young widow, with her six-year-old daughter, to make a living in an unfriendly world. She had died when Gay was 13, and Gay had gone to live with her only relatives, Aunt Sophie and Uncle Fred, in Traverse City.

"But I wanted to seek my fortune," Gay finished, lightly. "So I came to Detroit and got myself a job. I enjoy working at the club. Everyone's been kind to me, and I have a fairly decent little flat on Erskine street—where I should be, now, home in bed!"

"You live by yourself?"

"No. With Jean Briggs—you know, the other girl at the check counter. She's an awfully good sort."

The doctor nodded approval. "I'm glad to hear you're not entirely alone. That's a bad neighborhood." He rose to his feet. "Here's our food!"

The houseman padded across the room, wheeling a tea cart on which stood a silver coffee pot, and surrounded by plates of sandwiches.

"Cream and sugar? You like caviar sandwiches?" The doctor pried Gay's plate and commenced eating with a hearty appetite.

"Nagao, if you'll set the Scotch and soda within reach—"

"Great little chap," he commented, as the Japanese closed the door softly behind him. "I'm talking him north with me, on a fishing trip this summer. Ever go fishing, Gay?"

He launched into a description of his favorite sport—spoke with enthusiasm of the Canadian woods and streams.

Gay finished her last sandwich. "Please don't give me any more. It's been fun, but I've got to go. Three o'clock—and me a working girl!"

CONTRACT BRIDGE

SLOWED DOWN TOO MUCH

MANY SIDELIGHTS on duplicate procedure are both interesting and useful. Routine bid and play, excellent as each may be in rubber games, are insufficient to win top scores among your peers, provided there are present no weak pairs to hand over top score to a particularly lucky team which collects from the weak opponents. Among experts, top scores go either to the pair who has taken chances wisely or to the pair who has defeated pairs taking unfortunate times to venture. In the last regular Monday game for invited pairs I had for a partner C. S. Lochridge—an admirable teammate. Also there were present an unusual number of well-matched teams, making a top score a difficult task. Evidently psychology was to play an important role for those who did well. We had 15 pairs to meet.

As must be the case to get anywhere in such a game, our information was passing across the table without misunderstanding, which was not the case with several teams we encountered early in the evening. Those two factors gave us such heavy scores that we were about ready to let up and take average scores for the rest of the session, as such good fortune could not last forever.

At the last table at which we won a unique score our opponents were two men who never should have been paired. Each wanted the play to be conducted his way. It was a golden opportunity to steal a top score. Having a hunch that opponents would in some manner err, I carried my partner, L. No Trump, made over a bid of 1-heart, to game. We should have been down two tricks, but through the defenders' crossed wins we made a top score, going game. After that we made no risky attempts to exceed safe average scores, and ended with 12½ match points above all other pairs. But we slowed down too much, as the hand below shows.

Bidding went: East, 1-Spade South, 2-Diamonds; West, 2-Hearts North, 2-Clubs; East, 3-Hearts South, 4-Clubs, when the call should have been 3-Spades, to show no losers in that suit, which would have caused my partner to bid 4-Hearts, for the same reason as my own and a small slam call would have resulted, at either clubs or diamonds; instead of a small slam call my partner bid only 5-Clubs, and he played that call, making a grand slam, a every other pair in his position did. We were one of only two pairs who did not bid a small slam. This caused us to tie for bottom score at the hand. We certainly slowed up too much, just because we did not guess greater gain.

LEFTY LEE TRIES TWICE, AND WINS VICTORY ONCE

CLEVELAND, July 30.—(UP)—Thornton "Lefty" Lee, the Cleveland southpaw who has found great difficulty in beating anyone but the Washington Senators was knocked from the box in the first game of a double header here yesterday and then came back to pitch sterling ball in a relief role and gain credit for the second contest.

COLUMBUS, July 30.—(UP)—Middletown, the defending champion, and Warren will meet here tonight for the state American Legion junior baseball championship.

About This And That In Many Sports

Maurer Resigns

Another central Ohio coaching job, that at Washington C. H., is open — Howard "Red" Maurer, Wittenberg grad and native of Dover, O., has resigned after serving for the last six years—Maurer, it is reported, will become head coach at Barborton succeeding Jimmy Price, who goes to Cleveland Heights — Price was Maurer's predecessor at Washington C. H. — Maurer is attending summer school at Columbia university — His resignation was submitted by letter.

Cramer Favored

Though the board of education has done nothing as yet, it is believed Clyde Cramer, Ohio U. grad and Maurer's assistant for six years, will receive the nod—Cramer was an all-Ohio end at Athens.

Record Only Fair

The Washington C. H. record under Maurer has not been so hot — In his first year there Maurer piled up a neat record with the aid of some of the finest high school material in Ohio, including Wallie Noon, Eldon Armsbrust, Tom Severs and others — In his six years his football teams won 27, lost 27 and tied three, and won 26 and lost 42 in basketball.

Shotton's Fault

Blame Barney Shotton for the Red Birds' loss to St. Paul — The scene was the last half of the ninth, the Birds behind 6 to 7, Bush on first base and no one out — It was Freitas' turn to bat, and Mike Ryba was just waiting for a chance to stride to the plate, even if the order was to bunt — Shotton let Freitas bat for himself, he tried to bunt and hit into a double play, Todd whipping his grounder to Slade and the shortfielder pegging it back to first where Warner covered.

Fats vs. Skinnies

A fat and skinny man's ball game is planned on the SOElectric field next Friday evening—Opposing captains will be Frank Lynch and Glen Nickerson — There'll be a lot of fun, and a good crowd is expected to watch it.

BLUES, MILLERS CONTINUE IN TIE FOR THIRD SPOT

BY UNITED PRESS Kansas City and Minneapolis seemed determined today to maintain their tie in third place in the American Association. The two clubs, six games behind the leading Milwaukee Brewers, split doubleheaders yesterday. The Blues won the tight first game with the Indianapolis Indians last night 3 to 1, then lost the second by a score of 3 to 4 after Pitcher Niggeling went wild.

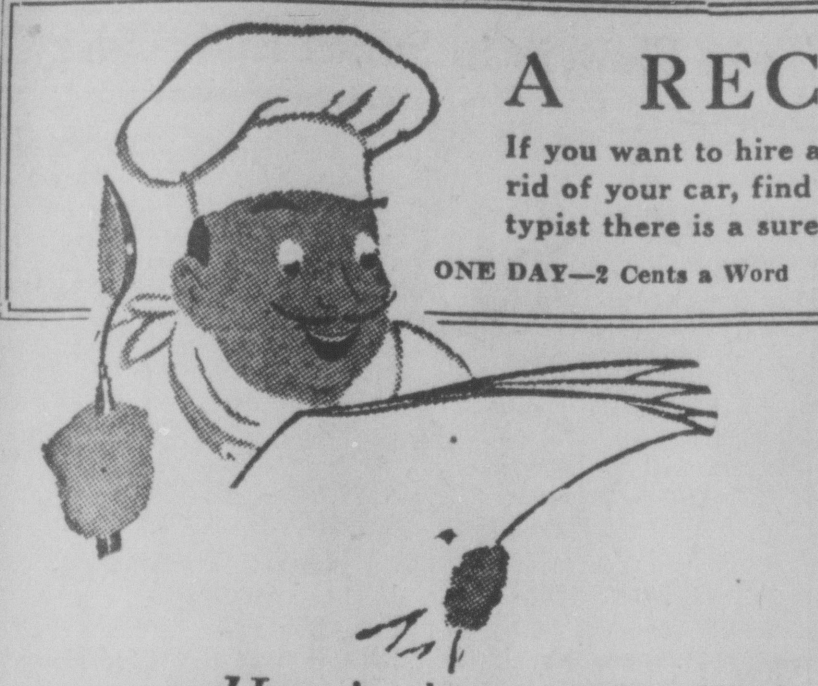

The Toledo Mud Hens fought Minneapolis to a standstill in the last three innings of their opener, overcame a three-run lead and won 8 to 7. A single run in the sixth gave the Millers the seven inning nightcap, 1 to 0, as Olson blanked the Hens.

St. Paul Staged an eighth inning splurge, scoring three runs to defeat the Columbus Red Birds 7 to 6. Columbus' early lead, accounted for by two homers by Winsett and Morgan, was knocked out when the Saints jumped on four Bird hurriers for the scores.

The top-place Brewers barely managed to earn belated revenge for defeats at the hands of the last-place Louisville Colonels in their current series, winning last night 3 to 1. The game was a bound dud, with Peterson of the Colonels pitching a hit ball while Hatter gave up only five. A triple by Laabs in the eighth that bounced from a fielder's glove brought in two men and broke a tie.

OLYMPIC COMMITTEE SILENT OVER DISMISSAL OF TWO BOXERS SENT HOME

OPPORTUNITY FOR FIGHTERS IN NAME REASON

Coach Says Church and King Homesick; Runners Near- ing Form

BERLIN, July 30.—(UP)—The flux on the United States women's swimming team apparently has cost the squad two more members, it was revealed today by Coach Ray Daughters, Seattle, Wash.

The team's best breaststroke, Dorothy Schiller, Chicago, and Anne Govednik, Chisholm, Minn., have been ill since their arrival in Berlin, and Daughters indicated it was doubtful if they will be in shape to start in the Olympics.

BERLIN, July 30.—(UP)—Officials of the American Olympic team, embarrassed by the publicity given the suspension of Eleanor Holm Jarrett, adopted a "hands off" policy today in the mysterious dismissal of two members of the boxing squad. Joe Church, Batavia, N. Y., featherweight, and Howell King, Detroit negro welterweight, were dropped from the team yesterday, were aboard the U. S. Liner Manhattan today bound for home. Why they were dropped from the Olympic village under cover of darkness and given no opportunity to talk with reporters remained a mystery.

Joe Davis of Chicago, manager of the boxing team, said: "The boys were homesick and their mental attitude so endangered the morale of the boxing squad that they had to be sent home."

Brundage Ignorant

Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic committee, professed to know nothing of the details.

"However I believe the boxing committee acted entirely within their rights and it is exclusively their affair," said Brundage.

Meanwhile track and field athletes seemed approaching peak condition in today's workout. Most of the athletes arose today less still and more than at any time since they have been in Berlin. This convinced Head Coach Robertson and others that the athletes are getting accustomed to the cool, damp weather.

Archie Williams, U. of California negro 400-meter man, was the first of Uncle Sam's athletes on the track this morning. He worked a quarter of a mile in 48.7 seconds.

Glenn Cunningham, veteran Kansas runner and America's leading hope in the 1,500 meters, reported his legs in better condition than at any time since he arrived in Berlin. He hopes to be in perfect condition by the time the first heat of his race is run Wednesday morning.

Gordon (Slinger) Dunn, Fresno, Calif., approached the world's discus record with a practice throw of 168 feet, best he has made since arriving. Ken Carpenter, Southern California, had a throw of 165 feet. The world's record is 171 feet, 11 1/2 inches held by Harold Anderson, Sweden.

DAVIS, HALLAHAN PICKED; RIGGS BACK IN LINEUP

PHILADELPHIA, July 30.—(UP)—Ray "Peaches" Davis and "Lefty" Hallahan were slated to be the starting Cincinnati Reds pitchers in a double-header with the Philadelphia Phillies. Ray Benge and Joe Bowman were the probable Philly starters.

Cincinnati's scheduled double-header here yesterday was rained out. The clubs will play one-half of it as a part of another twin bill tomorrow.

Lew Riggs, youthful third baseman who was benched at the start of the eastern trip because of erratic defensive play, was to return to the lineup today. Manager Charley Dresen determined he would play Riggs in place of the veteran Tommy Thoenow in an effort to secure greater batting strength.

NEW YORK, July 30.—(UP)—Next to a hard fast one and a good change of pace nothing helps the average pitcher more than a change of scenery.

Pitchers traded, sold or waived are losing favor in their old ballparks. They are cutting fancy capers in surroundings, major league clubs showed today.

BIRDS NEAR END OF HOME GAMES; ROAD TRIP LONG

COLUMBUS, July 30.—The current home stay of the Columbus Red Birds is to enter its final chapter tonight when Minneapolis opens a four-game series at the Bird stadium at 8:30. The Birds came home on July 21 and play their last game on August 2 before taking to the road again. Series against Milwaukee, Kansas City and St. Paul have preceded the Minneapolis set-to.

Tonight is officially "American Legion Night" at the Red Bird stadium. At 5 o'clock the state championship game of the American Legion will be played as a twilight affair, followed by the Red Bird-Minneapolis game under the lights at 8:30. The two teams will be idle Friday, the series being resumed with a single game Saturday at 3 o'clock. Saturday is to be Knot Hole Day and also Girls Day with the youngsters admitted free who are between the ages of 9 and 16. As an added attraction Saturday, the city championships for the Knot Hole Gang in several baseball events will be held following the game. A doubleheader Sunday with the first game starting at 1:30 will conclude the series.

On the road, the Birds will meet every team in the American Association except Toledo before they return here on August 24.

Fighting for a berth in the first division which will give them an opportunity to participate in the American Association play-off this year, the Columbus club has a schedule break in its favor in meeting Indianapolis, Louisville and Toledo, three of the weaker teams in the Association, on the road and at home in consecutive series at the end of the season. These three teams comprise all of the opposition for the Birds from August 15 until September 7 when the season ends.

YESTERDAY'S HERO: Joe Medwick, St. Louis Cardinals' outfielder, whose two homers in the night cap enabled his team to split a doubleheader with Brooklyn.

PHILADELPHIA, July 30.—(UP)—Ray "Peaches" Davis and "Lefty" Hallahan were slated to be the starting Cincinnati Reds pitchers in a double-header with the Philadelphia Phillies. Ray Benge and Joe Bowman were the probable Philly starters.

JENKINS VICTOR IN FIRST MATCH

Reichelderfer Loses; Bragg and Caldwell Default

First round matches in the Pickaway Country Club's annual tournament are about all over with two played Wednesday and two defaults announced.

John Jenkins turned back N. E. Reichelderfer by a margin of 6 holes with 5 to play.

Claude Kraft and Tom Gilliland, both playing good match golf, tied at the end of 18 holes. Both were tired and decided to wait until Sunday to end it. The first golfer to win a hole will be the victor.

The defaults put John Mader and Charles Glitt into the second round, John Bragg forfeiting to the former and Felix Caldwell to the latter.

EAGLES DEFEAT GIVEN OILS BY SPURT IN NINTH

Raymond Smith continued to pitch and hit his Eagle ball club into the middle of the softball league race, Wednesday evening, when he helped defeat the Given Oils in a 5 to 4 game.

The Givens led 4 to 0 until the sixth frame when two Eagle runs crossed the platter. There was no further scoring until the ninth when the Eagles tied up the ball game, then, with the bases full, Smith delivered a blow to the outfield that plated the winning marker.

Bob Jones was the victim of the belated attack.

The Eagles are through now until after the encampment at Fort Knox, Ky.

Tonight brings the Circleville Oils, only unbeaten team in the league, against the Pickaway Dairy, another tough foe.

The Indians beat Washington 11 to 6 in the opener and came from behind to take the second game 6 to 5. The double triumph enabled them to gain one-half a game on the leading New York Yankees.

GOLD CLIFF POOL DRAWING CROWD; POLING IS GUARD

Hundreds of persons from Circleville and vicinity have thronged the new Gold Cliff Chateau swimming pool since its opening last Sunday.

The new concrete pool is one of the finest in this section of the state. Several days of work remain before the bath house and walks are complete, but it is planned to have this done within a few days.

Martin Poling, an experienced life guard formerly at Indian Lake and Buckeye Lake, has been employed as guard at the new swim spot. The pool is open daily, including Sundays from 12:30 p. m. to 10 p. m.

Stanwyck and MacMurray to Star in "Main Street" Monday Eve

LEWIS' FAMOUS BOOK FEATURES THEATRE AIRING

Story of Typical Small Town to be Recited in Broadcast

Barbara Stanwyck and Fred MacMurray will be heard in the Radio Theatre for the first time on Monday, August 3, when they play the leading roles in "Main Street," based on the famous novel by Sinclair Lewis. This is the first complete broadcast of "Main Street" thereby giving one of the biggest "scoops" of the radio year to Cecil B. DeMille, producer of the Radio Theatre. The full hour broadcast will be heard over a WABC-CBS network at 8:00 p. m. (EST).

"Main Street" is the story of a typical American small town and its people. The chief characters are Dr. Will Kennicott and his wife, Carol. It is Carol who starts out to change the life of Gopher Prairie to something resembling the life she knew in a large city. Her attempts bring on the scorn of her neighbors and finally she goes away, leaving her husband, unable to stand existence in Gopher Prairie any longer. A year later she returns to find that after all the people are her friends and that it has grown to be her life, too.

"Main Street" is the book that lifted Sinclair Lewis to international fame in 1920 and the play was later produced on Broadway by the Shuberts. It has twice been filmed, once as a silent, once as a talkie. No better dramatic team could be found for this drama than Barbara Stanwyck and Fred MacMurray for their own backgrounds are, in a sense, symbolic of the parts. Miss Stanwyck was born in New York City and MacMurray in Kankakee, Illinois.

Barbara Stanwyck was a dancer in Broadway musicals which later led to the role of Bonnie in the play "Burlesque." It was during the long run of this play that she got her reputation as a great dramatic actress and came to the attention of Hollywood producers. Since then she has been starred in the films.

Fred MacMurray is a recent Hollywood discovery. Playing the saxophone in a dance band for several years eventually took him to a theatre in Hollywood. He worked a few days as an extra and then went back to singing and playing the saxophone. The orchestra, of which he was a member, was featured in "Three's A Crowd" with Libby Holman on Broadway, and later in "Roberta".

FOUR OCTAVE RANGE
Add to the amateurs with astounding vocal ranges and trick registers the name of Harriet Dearth, fourteen-year-old girl from Dayton, Ohio. On Major Bowes' Amateur Hour last Sunday night she demonstrated one of the most amazing voices which has yet been heard on the program. The slim young girl from the evening's honor city sang over a total range of four octaves — from the E flat below middle C to the highest E flat on the piano. The top octave she calls her "super-voice." Although it blends well with the lower register these top notes constitute a sort of "extra voice".

With this "super-voice" she can sing notes which sound like bird calls and they are really sung, not whistled as most bird imitators do. Among the calls she did were those of the whippoorwill, mockingbird, bobolink and canary. Next Sunday night will be Bridgeport, Conn., night.

POLICE QUESTION WOMAN, 50, AS SUSPECT IN SERIES OF STORE THEFTS

THREE CHARGES FILED IN COURT AFTER INQUIRY

Automobile Search Reveals Large Sum of Money and Much Merchandise

A woman giving her name as Eleanor Elsa, 50, London, O., Route 4, was awaiting a series of hearings in police court Thursday following her arrest Wednesday afternoon for shoplifting.

Three charges were on file with Mayor W. J. Graham at noon. I. W. Kinsey, manager of the Penney store, filed one charge involving theft of a $4 dress. Charges of selling merchandise without a vendor's license and failure to collect sales tax were filed by E. W. Weller, local tax examiner. A fourth charge involving the theft of a $1 box of face powder from the Crist department store was prepared by Prosecutor Ray W. Davis, and awaited a signature.

Watched Shopping Bag The woman's arrest resulted from a tip to the police department from Mrs. Myra Rader, employee of the Penney store. Mrs. Rader said the woman entered the store about 1 p. m. and tried on a number of dresses. She observed her shopping bag was flat when she entered and bulging when she left. Police checked stores and were unable to locate the woman but learned she had employed Walter Pickel, local youth, to drive her car. They obtained the license number.

Mayor Graham asked the sheriff's department to aid in searching for the car. Deputy Sheriff Earl Weaver, checking Route 22, east, apprehended the woman about one-half mile from the Pickaway-Fairfield county line. Her car was filled with merchandise. Officers found a trunk, four suitcases and numerous boxes loaded with dresses, hats, gloves, hosiery, toilet articles, and numerous other articles of clothing. In the toe of a stocking they found $220 in bills. They reported she had a number of other purses, several containing money.

The dress was identified by Mrs. Rader and Mr. Kinsey. The woman contended she had purchased the box of powder in Washington C. H., but the price markings were identified at the Crist department store, where she had been shopping.

100 Dresses Found Police estimated the woman has at least 100 dresses. None of the dresses is labelled and practically all had been washed. She told officers she came here from Washington C. H., and had paid a youth 50 cents to drive her car.

The woman said she sold furniture and had visited Troy, Lima, Toledo, Dayton, Grand Rapids, Xenia, Washington C. H., and Wilmington. Her answers to the questions police asked were so disconnected officers could obtain no information from her. The name was obtained from her automobile license papers. The car she used was an old Chevrolet sedan.

Police said they believed the majority of the merchandise had been stolen and the labels removed. A description of the woman and a partial list of the article found in her car were broadcast by the state highway patrol. The police department looked like a miniature clothing store Wednesday night and Thursday morning as officers checked through the merchandise in an effort to learn some clue as to where it had been obtained.

Wanted in Wilmington The state highway patrol reported to local police they believed the woman was in Wilmington several days ago and was wanted for investigation on a contributing charge. Information sent to the highway patrol by Wilmington authorities was later cancelled. She was lodged in the county jail pending hearings.
